THE JAM SKIMBOARD SCRAPBOOK

Well here it is everyone, a full cover to cover skimboard scrapbook of photographs friends and I have collected over last several years. As I review the pages I am reminded of the fun that I've had travelling, skimboarding and hanging out at the beach with old friends or meeting new ones or just on my own.

Over the years I've had to ask myself "WHY SKIM?" Well it's just good clean fun that's why. I guess it has to be the nearest thing to surfing and because we really don't have respectable conditions anyone would want to call surf, at least we still had little beach break waves to play on. While I skimmed I decided to achieve some sort of goal. It was to be the best that I could be and then to score the ultimate ride. One thing about skimboarding is that the more you ride the better you get and the better you get the more you want to ride. Having the right conditions like sandbars and or a beach with shorebreak waves is important also. I think I've succeeded at my goals because I feel my ultimate ride came last August when I ripped waves for almost a whole week. I had the whole time to myself because everyone else had gone away on vacation so I didn't have to bother with less capable riders either. North-east winds had pushed waves up to a meter and I took only the best ones to slash and splash on. I don't think I can recall a better time and it came at a time when my interest in skimboarding had peaked. I wonder if I'll see another time like that again?

During the years I've skimmed I've watched the interest grow but because the boards have not changed much, that a decent inexpensive foam board isn't being made yet, I feel skimmers aren't getting a sense of progress. The cost of my hand made foamies would be too much through dealers, plus they take a long time to make. I promised a production foamie for this year but have run into a few bugs. I'm still working on it. Since the board will be produced en-mass the price will be affordable. Keep an eye out for it.

All in all I hope you enjoy this skimboard scrapbook I've thrown together for you. I hope you have as much fun skimboarding as I have. I'm not sure what the future will bring but lets hope it's good waves, good friends, more travelling, and lots of good clean fun yea!!!

Oh, and look out for a contest soon. I may have one organized for mid August. I'll keep you posted,
